Safetell awarded 'SAFEcontractor' accreditation

Security screening and cash handling system company Safetell has received 'SAFEcontractor' accreditation in a programme operated by the international safety, health and environmental risk management specialist National Britannia Group recognising the highest standards of health and safety practice amongst UK contractors.

'Being awarded SAFEcontractor status reflects the commitment & pride that the Safetell team have in doing the job right first time. We are always looking to ensure that our customers can have the highest levels of confidence in Safetell.' Commented Paul Lovell, Safetell's director with direct responsibility for health and safety

To be an accredited SAFEcontractor company their health and safety procedures and track-record for safe practice are vetted and only those meeting the highest standards go on the 'SAFEcontractor' database accessible online to registered users.

James Ostler of National Britannia said: "Major organisations can no longer run the risk of employing contractors who are not able to prove that they have sound health and safety policies." Safetell provides product design, contract and maintenance services nationwide for banks and building societies, police forces and the Post Office, local authorities and government departments, forecourt retailers and supermarket chains.
