Speech Transfer System

Speech Transfer System – Bridgebar Type

Introduction

Safetell bridgebar speech transfer and glass intercom systems provide hands-free, electronic two way speech transfer between public and staff, who are separated by security glazing.

Both public and staff positions are equipped with microphone and loudspeaker for clear communication.

The staff microphone has a mute feature to prevent the system from transmitting staff speech when not desired.

Each system is supplied with its own power supply with standard 3-pin plug, staff amplifier with volume adjustment, induction loop aerial and label to accommodate those members of the public utilizing hearing aids.

The bridgebar system includes directional public microphone for superior transmission of public speech.

The staff side microphone and speaker unit is equipped with a flexible goose neck for staff comfort.

The system is supplied with standard length leads and connectors to provide a plug-and-play system.

Standard finishes are grey or black.
